Mr. Dogali has an extensive insurance coverage practice, involving all aspects of the insurance industry, including general liability coverage, directors' and officers' liability insurance, errors and omissions insurance, health insurance, surety bond disputes, and more. The implicated coverages have involved all types of issues and insured risks, including: construction defects; architect and engineer liability; health insurance denials; life insurance benefits; asbestos coverage; bad faith claim handling; securities broker-dealer errors and omissions; first party casualty and collapse coverages; deductible and SIR issues; additional insured risks; contractor bonding; and mold, pollution and environmental risks.

Within Mr. Dogali's insurance defense practice, he has defended a myriad of professional malpractice claims, on behalf of medical and legal professionals, architects, engineers, surveyors, accountants, and real estate agents and brokers. He has also defended general liability claims arising out of products liability, vehicular negligence, premises liability, and completed operations.

Also, Mr. Dogali has defended a number of self-insured municipalities in Florida. These claims include many facets of municipal and governmental liability, such as defective public facilities, inverse condemnation, police torts, civil rights claims, public records and Sunshine Law questions, and vehicular negligence.
