Commercial Litigation

Mr. Dogali has handled a wide variety of commercial disputes. Exemplary commercial cases include: representation of lenders and borrowers in usury disputes, and in foreclosures and collections matters; corporations, shareholders, directors and officers in shareholder derivative suits, malfeasance matters, and fraudulent transfer cases; investment and securities claims; and partnership disputes.

Mr. Dogali is editor and co-author of Practice Under Florida Usury Law (Florida Bar CLE), now entitled Florida Consumer Financial Transactions (Lexis/Nexis), the foremost reference on Florida usury law. The manual discusses interest rates and calculations for all types of lending institutions in Florida, including federal savings and loan associations, national banks, federal credit unions, all state chartered lending associations and institutions, and other types of lenders, and encompasses other issues as well, such as officer and director and lender liability.
